

LMI Passenger Protection Policy

Labrador Marine's first priority is the safety and security of our passengers, crew, and vessel. Our Passenger Protection Policy is in place to protect everyone's safety and security. Passengers are expected to respect their fellow travellers and allow for their enjoyment onboard the vessel.

LMI has a policy of ZERO TOLERANCE for behaviour that threatens or interferes with passengers or crew, or behaviour that threatens the safety of the vessel. Onboard crew will continuously monitor the vessel to ensure that LMI's Passenger Protection Policy is followed.

Endangering the crew and passengers, or failure to follow instructions given by crew to ensure safety and security of all passengers, will result in a travel ban for the people involved. This means that once you reach your destination, you will not be permitted to get back on board the vessel. Future boarding of the vessel will be denied.

Please respect the onboard rules and your fellow travellers.
